

CARiD

Who We Worked With

Our client is a company based in the United States that sells high-quality truck and car badges as well as other accessories.

the products are high quality and reasonably priced.

When our client first joined us, we began with Google Ads, using a combination of search and shopping campaigns.

To begin, our client felt most at ease focusing on Google Ads.

The Objective

Our client desired to increase sales and the reach of their paid advertising while keeping costs low in order to maximize their return on investment.

The company offered a wide range of products at reasonable prices.

Visitors to the website were converting, indicating that the business had potential.

Strategy

To achieve our goal of reaching targeted consumers looking for both quality services and sustainable products, we needed to devise a strategy that put optimized content in front of the right Google user.

We needed to raise our client's brand awareness in order to increase sales.

This entailed utilizing a variety of different optimization techniques in order to create a comprehensive user-focused campaign.

The first step was to identify the keywords and search queries that organic customers used to find related products. For our client, we conducted an analysis of popular terms and their viability, determining which best served their needs in terms of both commercial intent and consumer targeting.

Result

We were able to significantly increase the conversion rate from PPC traffic by hunting through search query reports religiously, adding negative keywords, and fine-tuning the product feed, resulting in more sales for the same amount of traffic (and cost).

In fact, the Paid Search channel not only increased, but it also helped boost conversions through other channels.
